

Road Club Champions

Research into results is ongoing, with the goal of validating as much of Bathurst Cycling Club's History as possible.

Notes:

Bathurst Cycling Club Individual Time Trial Championships

For periods through the club's history the Time Trial championship or sometimes referred to as the Unpaced Championship, has been the main title of the club. However, in the modern era, starting 1985, the Road Race Championship become the premier title, consistently held each year after the club amalgamated. The Individual Time Trial title held only sporadically, often to select teams for the NSW TTT state titles.

However, after the 2000 Olympics, there became a much greater focus on the Individual Time Trial, and an ITT championship was held every year since 2001. In fact, for a period both short course and long course championships were held, as well as Bathurst Hill Climb Championships. Bathurst regularly hosting the NSW Hill Climb Championship each year.

Bathurst Cycling Club Female Road Champion

The Bathurst Road Racing Women Champion is very significant for the history of the club. However, it rarely has been contested as a standalone title and is generally decided by the highest ranked female rider on the Bathurst Road Championship Day.

A female rider that has been handicapped into a higher grade and finishes the race will be ranked higher than any riders in the lower grades. This has created difficulties in compiling the results on rare occasions, discovering if a female finished in a higher grade to take the title above a group of females racing in a lower grade. There have also been occasions when no female riders entered the championships.
